Angie Camara Lubbe

Angie Camara Lubbe is a music educator with a special interest in piano performance and instruction. She studied at Pretoria University in South Africa where she obtained a BMUS HONS degree cum laude with Specialisation in Music Education. She also attained a Teacher's Licentiate in Music with Specialization in Pianoforte through the University of South Africa. After her studies, she taught music at various Primary schools in London, UK, for a period of four years. She then returned to South Africa to head up the music department at St Dunstan's College Preparatory School in Johannesburg where she spent 12 years. Angie emigrated to Australia with her family at the end of 2018.

Angie enjoys teaching in different settings and enjoys the variety that her role as music educator brings her. She provides piano tuition at Marymount Primary and also spends a day a week teaching Grade 2, 3, and 4 class music.

She also conducts the Marymount Primary school choir. When she is not at Marymount, she teaches piano and is accompanist to 2 other choirs at two other schools in the Gold Coast area.
