PRINCIPAL’S AWARDS ADDRESS & OTHER MATTERS

As we congratulated those receiving awards, we thanked their teachers, parents and fellow students for the great support provided that enables such success. We also reflected on how success is achieved academically, in sport and in relationships.

We asked those parents present, and many were, to reflect on how they went at school. We asked did they have academic success, sporting success or success in art, music or dance. We asked whether they had expectations of themselves. We asked if they had high or low expectations. We asked what helped them the most.

We need to remind ourselves as teachers, parents and students to have expectations; to challenge and motivate ourselves; and most critically to develop intentionality. The production team, cast and crew of our musical The Wedding Singer had expectations and intentionality. These expectations were set two years before and two years before that with the musicals Anything Goes and Grease.

The production team for The Wedding Singer knew what and how their expectations were as they set out their intentions from July 2012, throughout auditions, rehearsals, planning and review meetings through to curtain call on 2 May 2013. Expectations and intentions produce purpose that results in effort and hard work; attention to detail, accuracy and execution; achievement, personal satisfaction and character.

Our Netball Teams at QISSN in 2014 and 2015 will be drawing on the expectations and intentions of this year’s coach Mrs Kim Smith and the youthful squad that travelled to Townsville. All the girls likely to come forward to earn a place in the team in July 2012, throughout auditions, rehearsals, planning and review meetings through to curtain call on 2 May 2013. Expectations and intentions produce purpose that results in effort and hard work; attention to detail, accuracy and execution; achievement, personal satisfaction and character.

Success for our Rugby League Teams in recent years has also been founded on the same solid principles. We want to compete. Mr Hamilton, Mr Browne, Mr Turner, Mr Foster and the parents who assist share this expectation. They train, play, fundraise and succeed. The ability to work the way they have across all five venues is remarkable year level. The number of students receiving awards has organised the annual Careers Expo for this Tuesday. It is open to all our students and we encourage attendance to prompt the necessary conversations with parents as they think about courses for Senior and also their future beyond high school. The Year 11 Subject Selection Evening is scheduled for 7pm Monday 5 August.

Amid the bureaucratic necessities of an audit of our Vocational Educational and Training Course Delivery by QSA our VET Office has organised the annual Careers Expo for this Tuesday. It is open to all our students and we encourage attendance to prompt the necessary conversations with parents as they think about courses for Senior and also their future beyond high school. The Year 11 Subject Selection Evening is scheduled for 7pm Monday 5 August.

Mention was also made of the wonderful examples of individual expectation, intention and achievement. Brittany Broben currently at the World Diving Championships in Spain; Joel McKitrick currently competing in the Junior World Kayaking Championships in Canada, Steven Phan, winner of the Junior World Karate Title (Traditional Karate-do Federation International) recently held in Spain, Tailor Marshall, currently competing in the National IRB (Inflatable Rescue Boat) Championships in Darwin and Ayla Beaufils, Queensland Winner of Plain English Speaking.

Ayla addressed the College Assembly on Tuesday of this week. She told the story of Malala Yousafzai, the young Pakistani girl who was shot in the head by Taliban. From her earliest years Malala expected to have an education and intended to go to school and beyond. Her parents were of similar mind. She is known for her education and human rights activism in the Swat Valley where the Taliban had banned girls from attending school. While her purpose is now a purpose for all girls and women in Pakistan, and throughout the world who might be denied an education (whether because of family, race, religion or economic circumstances) it powerfully reminds all of us to be intentional people in our lives.

If you happened to miss last week’s Newsletter do take the time to read the student articles there. Rochelle Johnson’s piece on the Battle of the Bands is a great article as a story of intentionality in the Music Department and as excellent writing. Similarly articles on Physiotherapy, Journalism, Medical Research and Dance by Year 11 girls following Work Experience are well written by people with expectations and purpose. I commend our students for the culture of expectations and intentions they help to create at Marymount. They need our support.

This support does not come from platitudes or grandstanding. It starts with rules around the minor and the mundane: getting to school on time; getting to school every day; attending on days for swimming and athletics carnivals; being here on Marymount day; working through the list of jobs and assignments each day, week and term; being loving, respectful and honest with our self and those we love. The culture only exists because we work at it.

Our intention, as we strive to nurture and maintain this culture across all our endeavours is to support families. It is to help form happy, healthy and capable young adults with a healthy lifetime philosophy based on the person of Jesus that will give them confidence and capacity to purposefully make the world a better place as they provide for themselves, their loved ones and others.

YEAR 11 RETREAT

One of the privileges of being a Principal is being able to visit all the Retreat sites. The twenty staff who gave generously of their time also feel privileged to be with students on retreat and to nurture their understanding of God and their spirituality. This is a remarkable year level. The number of students receiving awards at the latest Principal’s Awards both in Academic Merit and Excellence in Attitude and Conduct at school were exceptional. The ability to work the way they have across all five venues is a credit to their parents and to the Year 11 Pastoral team. Our appreciation goes out to the staff who participated and in particular Mrs Dolores Maitland and Miss Niama Timlin who have made this all possible. Appreciation also to Mr Connor, Mr Shaw and Ms Hansen and staff back at school for covering classes with so many away on Retreat.

Term 3 and the new semester has started well for the Senior students. There have been a number of subject changes processed especially for Year 11 students. We trust that they have now settled into their elective choices and are getting off to good time and assessment strategies. It was pleasing to see many parents at the Parent / Teacher Interviews this week. We have long believed at the College that, especially for Senior students, it is a 3-way partnership which is required to ensure success for the student. All teachers, parents and students have a role to play in achieving successful student pathways. NO more subject changes are possible past the end of Week 3.

It was noted at the Principal’s Awards of last week the volume of Senior students achieving the outstanding standards required to qualify for the awards. We believe this, in part, is due to students not only working to the best of their ability, but in selecting a successful pathway to begin with. I addressed the Senior group and commented on how a slow and steady approach to goal setting – even given that the goal is high – has worked in my favour over many years of study and personal and professional development. I encouraged them to continue on the small steps approach to big gains. As the 1st century Chinese philosopher Lao-tzu is quoted: A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step. A Semester II assessment calendar is on track for publication by the end of Week 3. It will be available on the College Website and a hard copy will be published for students. We encourage them to highlight their particular subject loads and to place this in a prominent position.

Next week (Thursday) we will run the first of two Full Day rehearsals for the QCS test. This will be run as an ‘exact’ repeat of last year’s Day#1. This gives our year 12 OP students a taste of the real thing and gives them a look at the exact test papers last year’s cohort completed. Attendance is compulsory.

BATTLE OF THE BANDS

As a member of the group TBA, I was very excited to be a part of the 2013 Battle of the Bands. Our song, “Rubix” won Best Original song on the night. TBA’s creative process is simultaneously individual and collaborative when writing original songs—we all brainstorm as a collective and then write our own individual parts. It is incredible fun whenever we play this song as it has so much vibrancy and energy in the riff and the outro is so funky too.

On the night of the competition I was amazed to be a part of such a professional competition, as the stage, sound and lighting qualities were of an immense class, especially the sound crew!!! They provided the best fold back and sound quality that I have ever had personally when performing! I found it very beneficial that the sound crew provided an effects pedal board for each band which allowed me to change the tone of my guitar, one ‘stomp’ on a pedal and I could go from a nice crisp, clean sound to a fuzzy, distorted sound, so I had fun experimenting with the tones!

It was also very nice to chat to the other participants of the competition, as the other bands are very friendly and talented. Some students said that they plan on taking their love of music further by eventually studying music or pursuing a career in the music industry, be in production or performance. The support that each band gave to one another was palpable as each band would be met with applause from the other bands after each performance, and this was quite touching to see people congratulate other’s efforts in the thing that we all love, which is music.

All of the bands from Marymount performed to a very high standard!!!!!!! It was a great night and I wish the bands the best of luck for next year!

YEAR 12 UPDATE

THE FORMAL

Preparations for the school Formal are looming large. Students are reminded to please check arrival times and ensure that groups and partners have communicated details correctly.

Effective from today, the entrance driveway to the Marriott hotel has been completed. Arrivals will be able to come up to the foyer entrance and exit in the usual direction.

Check out the photos taken last year to give you an idea of what to expect. (On display in SAO) This year’s Formal photos will be available for viewing at the Bookshop from Friday following the event.

QCS

A full dress rehearsal for QCS [whole day] will be held on Thursday July 25. Students need to bring the correct equipment for each test. This will be collected and packaged for every student according to the requirements for each test in September. All equipment will be returned to students at the end of the final test.

Thursday’s tests will be the Writing Task, Multiple Choice I and Multiple Choice II.

CAREER EXPO

Students are reminded to attend this event next Tuesday July 23rd. It is always informative and helpful for students deciding their career paths including choice of universities and colleges.

UNIFORM, PUNCTUALITY, RESPECT

At a time when many students are gearing up for the workforce or further study, the College’s standing in the community is highlighted. Marymount College has earned its great reputation through the dedication and hard work of many students and staff alike.

We ask parents and guardians to work with us and remind our seniors of the tremendous value of a good reputation. This relates to the student’s attendance and punctuality each day; the demonstration of respect for the school community by wearing the school uniform correctly and a positive application to all required work.

Should you have any queries relating to any Year 12 matters, please contact us through the College’s Administration office.

PROJECT RAMEAU – SYDNEY DANCE COMPANY

‘Sixteen dancers, twenty-two musicians and a combined passion for the music of Rameau - that's what's hitting the Playhouse stage at QPAC for the next three nights.’ - ABC Brisbane.

Last Friday night, dance students bussed up to Brisbane’s Queensland Performing Arts Centre to view Sydney Dance Company’s highly praised ‘Project Rameau’. In a spectacular one-hour performance in conjunction with the Australian Chamber Orchestra, a very talented team of experienced contemporary dancers presented an almost flawless piece choreographer by Rafael Bonachela.

This dance piece, combining Jean-Phillipe Rameau’s 18th century ‘Baroque’ musical compositions and the unpredictability of modern contemporary dancing, has astounded critics and brought stellar crowds to each of its venues. There was energy and excitement radiating from the dancers, not to mention emotion and elegance. It seemed to hold a sense of timelessness.

One feature, which I personally loved, was the use of space. The orchestra was placed on a platform stage situated on the second half of the stage. This bold statement is something not typically seen, but was a fabulous addition to the performance and the atmosphere created on stage.

In the words of our dance teacher, Ms Press, this was, “A once in a lifetime performance. I’ve been to shows in France and all over the world, and it is by far one of the best.”

To be able to watch a performance of that standard is astounding, and something that we as high school dance students have been privileged to experience.

The role of the arts in society is often undervalued and this has become a topic of great discussion. This is equally true for the arts in education and as an art teacher I am often asked on subject information evenings by concerned parents just what their son or daughter will gain from studying art. I think this question comes from visions of their child being consigned to the life of a struggling artist but the reality is far from this and the article below written by well known arts writer and educator Lisa Philips and taken from the Washington Post demonstrates the importance of arts in education.

Steve O’Keefe – Visual Art Coordinator

TOP 10 SKILLS CHILDREN LEARN FROM THE ARTS

CREATIVITY: Being able to think on your feet, approach tasks from different perspectives and think ‘outside of the box’ will distinguish your child from others. In an arts program, your child will be asked to recite a monologue in 6 different ways, create a painting that represents a memory, or compose a new rhythm to enhance a piece of music. If children have practice thinking creatively, it will come naturally to them now and in their future career.

CONFIDENCE: The skills developed through theater, not only train you how to convincingly deliver a message, but also build the confidence you need to take command of the stage. Theater training gives children practice stepping out of their comfort zone and allows them to make mistakes and learn from them in rehearsal. This process gives children the confidence to perform in front of large audiences.

PROBLEM SOLVING: Artistic creations are born through the solving of problems. How do I turn this clay into a sculpture? How do I portray a particular emotion through dance? How will my character react in this situation? Without even realizing it kids that participate in the arts are consistently being challenged to solve problems. All this practice problem solving develops children’s skills in reasoning and understanding. This will help develop important problem-solving skills necessary for success in any career.

PERSEVERANCE: When a child picks up a violin for the first time, she/he knows that playing Bach right away is not an option; however, when that child practices, learns the skills and techniques and doesn’t give up, that Bach concerto is that much closer. In an increasingly competitive world, where people are being asked to continually develop new skills, perseverance is essential to achieving success.

FOCUS: The ability to focus is a key skill developed through ensemble work. Keeping a balance between listening and contributing involves a great deal of concentration and focus. It requires each participant to not only think about their role, but how their role contributes to the big picture of what is being created. Recent research has shown that participation in the arts improves children’s abilities to concentrate and focus in other aspects of their lives.

NON-VERBAL COMMUNICATION: Through experiences in theater and dance education, children learn to breakdown the mechanics of body language. They experience different ways of moving and how those movements communicate different emotions. They are then coached in performance skills to ensure they are portraying their character effectively to the audience.

RECEIVING CONSTRUCTIVE FEEDBACK: Receiving constructive feedback about a performance or visual art piece is a regular part of any arts instruction. Children learn that feedback is part of learning and it is not something to be offended by or to be taken personally. It is something helpful. The goal is the improvement of skills and evaluation is incorporated at every step of the process. Each arts discipline has built in parameters to ensure that critique is a valuable experience and greatly contributes to the success of the final piece.

COLLABORATION: Most arts disciplines are collaborative in nature. Through the arts, children practice working together, sharing responsibility, and compromising with others to accomplish a common goal. When a child has a part to play in a music ensemble, or a theater or dance production, they begin to understand that their contribution is necessary for the success of the group. Through these experiences children gain confidence and start to learn that their contributions have value even if they don’t have the biggest role.

DEDICATION: When kids get to practice following through with artistic endeavors that result in a finished product or performance, they learn to associate dedication with a feeling of accomplishment. They practice developing healthy work habits of being on time for rehearsals and performances, respecting the contributions of others, and putting effort into the success of the final piece. In the performing arts, the reward for dedication is the warm feeling of an audience’s applause that comes rushing over you, making all your efforts worthwhile.

ACCOUNTABILITY: When children practice creating something collaboratively they get used to the idea that their actions affect other people. They learn that when they are not prepared or on-time, that other people suffer. Through the arts, children also learn that it is important to admit that you made a mistake and take responsibility for it. Because mistakes are a regular part of the process of learning in the arts, children begin to see that mistakes happen. We acknowledge them, learn from them and move on.

Queensland Independent Secondary Schools Netball Carnival 2013

QISSN carnival once again was a fantastic sporting experience for our girls and is seen as a highlight on the calendar of many Independent schools across QLD. The 2013 carnival was hosted by Ryan Catholic College, Kirwan with games being held in Townsville during the first week of the June school holidays. This open age competition involved 48 teams from as many schools across Queensland competing for places in a 6 Division competition.

A great amount of time goes into fundraising, coordinating and preparing the team for this event. My appreciation goes to Mr Noonan for his support and Miss Tegan Crawford who accompanied the team as Manager. Many thanks also to the parents who sent continual texts of support and well wishes to the team and myself.

The competition commenced with 2 days of pooling games consisting of 7 matches. Marymount drew Pool B coming up against some very tough teams including the Division 1 winners (Mathew Flinders) from 2012.

Based on points scored for and against the girls missed the top 8 in Division 1 by a point finishing 2nd in Division 2. They were narrowly defeated by last year’s Runner Up Mt Alvernia by a point in the quarterfinal and then went on to defeat both Sienna College and St Patrick’s Yeppoon in the semi and Division 2 play off.

The team finished the competition 13th out of the 48 team competition. A great accomplishment considering the average age of the team is 15 years of age. With this in mind, the junior team members show promise of many great things to come at future carnivals.

Voted Most Valuable Player of the tournament (an award voted by the opposing teams) was Jordan Browne (Year 10). This is Jordan’s first year in the team.

This year we farewell two senior players Georgia Norfolk and Grace Bedward who have represented the College for the past 3 -4 years at this competition. Their contribution to College netball has been commendable. I have had the pleasure of working with these girls since their first years in Year 9 ASP Netball and have come to know them personally as fantastic young women who are absolute “workhorses” on court.

We look forward to 2014 with only another 48 weeks to go before Assisi College host the next Queensland Independent Schools Netball Carnival here on the Gold Coast.

PEACE PRAYER OF ST. FRANCIS OF ASSISI

Lord, make me an instrument of your peace; Where there is hatred, let me sow love; When there is injury, pardon; Where there is doubt, faith; Where there is despair, hope; Where there is darkness, light; And where there is sadness, joy.

Grant that I may not so much seek To be consoled as to console; To be understood, as to understand, To be loved as to love; For it is in giving that we receive, It is in pardoning that we are pardoned, And it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.
